- Q1. Pottery has been known as lyrics of handicraft and significantly symbolized the status of culture and society. Elaborate. (12.5 Marks)

Pottery is regarded as one of the most important character trait in Neolithic revolution.

Its origin is imbibed in the idea of storage of food crops, or storage of water. However, over the years the outer surface of the pottery was used to draw fine paintings or engravings.

We can judge the status of culture and society depending upon the pottery and its decorations for example:-

Ill-potted pottery - This symbolizes less elaborateness and it also means that the society is at relatively primitive stage of cultural development e.g. Many Neolithic potteries were ill-potted pottery.

Potted pottery - This means better craftsmanship and a well advanced culture.

Wheel made pottery vs Hard Pressed pottery:-

Wheel made pottery means that the society was aware about the use of wheel. It also means that long distance trade may be possible due to knowledge of wheel. On the other hand, hand pressed potteries are crude in nature.

Sometimes, the paintings on the outer surface of the pottery tells a lot about the culture and society. Let us look at the evolutionary trend of pottery in India.

Painted Red and Black Ware

- Harappa civilization: Painted Grey ware, Thukar & Chhangar
- Early Vedic: Once coloured pottery
- Later Vedic: Painted Grey ware.
- Mauriyas: Northern Black polished ware.

Over the years, pottery evolved from being a simple storage vessel to a storehouse of culture and painting.

How they reflected status of culture and society?

Explain for every phase.

- Q2. Gandhar school of art was melting pot of Indo-Greek-Roman arts of sculpture, but Mathura school of art developed indigenously. Discuss. (12.5 Marks)

Gandhar school of art was geographically located at a trijunction where 3 trade routes meet:- (1) Utkarsh Path (2) The silk route (3) A route connecting to Taxila. Due to this, it had blended traits of art. It was a culmination of Indo-Greek- and Roman arts of culture.

Here, the sculptor was made of Lord Buddha. Hence, the subject of the sculptor was Indian. The statues were made which had following Greeko-Roman characters:-

- (a) A bunched hair (b) Drapery which was elaborated
- (c) Moustache (d) The Buddha had Apollonian face

Major difference between Gandhar and Mathura art can be described as follows:-

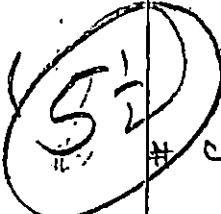

Gandhar

- # Influence of Greeko-Roman school
- # Geographically located at the North-Western borders

Mathura

- # Indigenous
- # Located interior in Indian Subcontinent

Remarks

Gandhar	Mathura
subject:- Buddha was the only subject.	Mathura art was secular as well as religious. Here, Sculptors of Buddha, Jain monks as well as Hindu God were made.
Features:- Appollonian face; Drapery; Bunched hair; Moustache	Sculptor of Dashika is an example of secular art features:- Buddha was shown to be masculine characteristics. Life size statues were made.
patronised by:- Sakas and Kushanas  came around late 2nd century BC.	# patronised by:- Sakas and Kushanas came around early second century BC.
Remarks	# Nyaya Patha:- It was the unique art form of the Mathura school. Gandhar, Mathura and Amravati school of art were the three most important schools of ancient India. They differed in their styles but they shared the common civilization.

Growth of Mathura School with time

Q3. Painting is one of the most delicate forms of art giving expression to human thoughts and feelings through the media of line and color. In this light trace the origin and development of wall paintings in India and their significance. (12.5 Marks) paintings are store houses of cultural data. They may be used by people to express their thoughts but the historians used paintings to weave history and divine into the minds of the painter and the society. For example:-

The Bhimbetka paintings do not have a painting where ~~anyhow~~ can be found. The historians concluded ~~that the~~ society was not a food producing community.

Earliest evidence of wall paintings can be traced into the cave paintings found in Mirzapur, and Bhimbetka. Majority of these paintings belong to the prehistory - Upper Palaeolithic and Mesolithic.

In India, wall paintings can be distinguished into 2 major forms:-

(a) ~~rock~~ painting example:- Mirzapur, Bhimbetka

(b) ~~on~~ cave paintings:- These are painted in rock all over like, Narte, Bhose, Bagh, Kauri, Shaja etc.

Remarks

How each of them express human thoughts and feelings of that time? Explain

Wall paintings are also called as Mural paintings and painted on a larger canvas. Ajanta caves is the most evidences for Buddhist wall painting. Here, we find paintings related to life of Buddha. In Medieval India, wall paintings continued and we found evidences in Meenakshi temple.

Significance of paintings

- (1) They help the historians to weave history.
- (2) Paintings also used to disseminate information and messages. for example:- Caves stories are painted in Ajanta caves.
- (3) These paintings have aesthetic value and used as a decoration.
- (4) Paintings were giving livelihood opportunities to the painters. for example:- Akbar employed more than 100 painters in his karkhanas.
- (5) Paintings promote tourism; for example:- Ellora and Ajanta are major tourist hotspots in India.

Remarks

- Q4. Indian Classical music evolved in two major forms. While tracing the origin of Indian classical music, discuss major similarity and differences in Hindustani and Carnatic music. (12.5 Marks)

Indian classical music can be distinguished into two forms:- (a) Hindustani (b) ~~Carnatic~~ Carnatic Music. Indian classical music can be traced back to Vedic age. The Yajur Veda talks about recitation of the Vedic Verses in a symphony. Later, Bharat Muni's Natyashastra and Athinava Gupta's book on music throws light on evolution of music in India. Initially, music may have been originated for religious purposes, but later it became a source of recreation.

Hindustani

- ① Hindustani music had the influence of Persian, Turkish culture.
- ② Hindustani music is localised into Northern parts of Indian subcontinent.
- ③ The Hindustani music had different flavours based on

Carnatic

- ④ Carnatic music is indigenous.
- ⑤ It is localised in the Southern part.
- ⑥ It is homogeneous in nature.

Remarks

Hindustani

different gharanas.

- (4) Hindustani music could be played for religious as well as for recreation.

- (5) Here, the singer had the flexibility for improvisation.

- (6) Instruments were equally important.

Croon

~~and~~ flute and violin were similar musical instruments used.

Hindustani and Carnatic music although differed much, but they shared common ideas. Both were spiritual, both used the musical instruments and both were characterized by - svaras, Raag and Taal.

Carnatic

- (4) Carnatic music chiefly used for religious purposes.

- (5) Carnatic music is rigid, it does not permit improvisation.

- (6) Here, music

- Instruments were secondary to the singers.

- (7) flute and violin.

Remarks:

- Q5. Storytelling has been one of the major themes of Indian classical dances. Identify these dances and discuss their major characteristics. (12.5 Marks)

Bharat Muni's Natyashastra talks about Natya which comprises two elements -

- # Natya - Drama (Story-telling) and
- # Nritta - Dance.

Sangeet Kala Academy of India provides classic dance tag based on Bharat Muni's Natyashastra. There are eight such dances which are considered as classical → (1) Mohiniattam (2) kuchipudi (3) kathakali (4) Bharatanatyam (5) Odisha (6) Manipuri (7) Kathak (8) Kathiya Dance.

These dances often used to convey messages through the storytelling for example:-

kathakali :- kathakali word is derived from two words - "katha" + "kali".

(drama) (dance)

kathakali is used to tell the stories related to the victory of God over the devil.

The dancers use different masks and different facial expressions to convey different meanings.

Similarly, kuchipudi - dance which is popular in

Remarks

Andhra Pradesh and Telangana used to convey different stories to people. One of the famous story is - Story related to Prog.
Major characteristics

- (1) Majority of Indian classical dances are related to Devadasi system.
- (2) The stories of the dances were often religious in characters and often the subject was derived from - Mahabharata and Ramayana.
- (3) Few dances like → Pataliputra dance was the result of Bhakti Movement and it spread ideas of Bhakti movement.
- (4) The dances combined both Pandava and ~~Lavanya~~ Lavanya.

Indian Classical dances were primarily used to praise the holiness of temple deities. Later, it became exploitative due to degeneration of temple administration.

- Q6. The Revolt of 1857, an unsuccessful but heroic effort to eliminate foreign rule and turn the clock back. Do you agree with the statement? (12.5 Marks)

The Revolt of 1857 is historic and may be considered as the first way of independence. It shook the British Empire so much that the British Empire had to ~~break~~ He-lock into the administration of India, former, they came with 1858 Act.

The Revolt of 1857 may be considered as heroic effort to eliminate foreign rule as:-

- (a) It aimed at throwing out Britishers.
- (b) sooner, the British Parliament came up with 1858 Act, which
 - # eliminated the role of Governor-General
 - # the British Crown directly took control of India.
 - # It promised Indian rulers, not to interfere
 - # It promised to respect local culture and
 - # It made open ~~the~~ public service for Indians.

However, it cannot be classified as pan-India Revolt because. It had several shortcomings.

- (a) It lacked Pan-India characteristics. It was localized only in ~~the~~ north and few districts of Bihar.

Remarks

- (b) Not all troops supported this revolt. For example:- Sikh and Gurkha regiments helped Britishers, whereas Madrassas and Bombay regiment was neutral.
- (c) It lacked good leadership, the leaders like - Bunwari Singh, Laxmi Bai etc. had their individual interests. It lacked collective interest.
- (d) Middle class did not support the revolt.

Conclusion.

(4) The Revolt of 1857 was result of alienation and British oppression. Although it lacked pan-India participation, it may be remembered as a heroic episode in Indian history against the British oppression.

Analytically discuss the retrospective nature, orientation and approach of the Revolt.

- Q7. Emergence of political organizations in the second half of the 19th century was a result of the changes brought about by the Britishers in India to its social and political landscape. Comment. (12.5 Marks)

The second half of 19th century saw the emergence of political organizations in India. Few of them are →

- # East India Association by Dadabhai Naoroji
- # Indian Association by J.N. Banerjee
- # Indian National Congress at Bombay.

There were many reasons which were responsible for birth of such organizations! social reasons.

- # the traditional laws were nullified and Britishers introduced uniform laws.
- # the increased connectivity due to railways and roadways led to greater homogenization.
- # the social discrimination and oppression over the years.

political reasons

- # the political organizations demanded several constitutional and administrative changes from the Britishers like →
- (a) self-government

Remarks

Modern Education
 Administrative and Geographical integration of India

- (b) Increased participation of Indians in the Viceroy's Executive Council.
- (c) Reduced military expenditure.
- (d) Opening Indian civil services for the Indians.

Economic Reasons

- (1) R.C. Dutt, ~~and~~ Dadabhai Naoroji all witnessed the Britishers' "Drain of wealth" policy.
- (2) De-industrialisation over the years due to skewed import and export policy.
- (3) Introduction of new land revenue system like Permanent Settlement, Mahaswari and Ryotwari system was more exploitative in nature.
- The culmination of ~~social racial~~ discrimination and economic exploitation were the major reasons for the birth of political organisations in the later half of 19th century.

- Q9. Describe the circumstances leading to the formulation of Nehru report? Also, critically examine the features of Nehru report; explain what was the response of the Muslim League to the Nehru report? (12.5 Marks)

Several political organisations had been demanding Dominion Status for India. This can be traced from the Home Rule Movement during late 1920s. However, ~~before~~ the ~~disposition~~ Report of Civil Disobedience Movement, participation of Mahatma Gandhi in 2nd Round Table Conference and brutal suppression of the second phase of civil disobedience prepared ground for Nehru report. Birbhum challenged the Indian political lobby that they cannot bring a consensus on how to rule India. In response, Nehru report came.

Features of Nehru report:-

- (1) It demanded Universal Adult Franchise to Indians.
- (2) It demanded freedom to form trade unions.
- (3) It talked about repealing separate electorate.
- (4) It also talked about secularism.
- (5) The Nehru report also had the provisions for making National Education Dominon Status.

- Q10. The largest gain of the Congress ministries during the 18-month government post 1937 elections was psychological gain for Indians. In light of the above statement, explain the important steps taken by Congress ministries in Provinces. (12.5 Marks)

After the suppression of the second phase of civil-disobedience movement, the Indian National Congress was divided in two factions - one supporting the idea to participate in general elections and other opposing it. In how many provinces finally, a compromise was reached and the Congress made ministries in many provinces. The gains made by them were:

(a) The Indians for the first time, could see their leaders as the administrators. They could meet the ministers and talked about the grievances.

(b) Psychological:

Common people would walk into the Secretariat without fear and see their leaders.

(c) The Indian ministers reduced their monthly salary by a substantive amount.

Avoid superficial points

Remarks

Reforms and initiatives taken by Congress ministries precisely

²² Few failures of ministries

- ① In United Provinces, a number of steps were taken to promote land reforms.
- ② In the legislative, many policies were aimed at - emancipation of poverty, to tackle epidemics and to promote universal education.

However, with the outbreak of World War I, the Indian National Congress chose to withdraw from the government.

The short period of "self-rule" in many provinces showed the Indians that their leaders were adept in administration, but may be of a short duration but it had a lasting impact on Indian masses.

Q11: "The Revolt of 1942 was in fact short-lived. Its importance lay in the fact that it demonstrated the depth up to which nationalist feeling has reached in the country". Elucidate. (12.5 Marks)

After the failure of Cripps Mission, Gandhi proclaimed the launch of "first struggle against the British Rule in 1942 and called it "quit India movement". This is also called as regular revolution and here, some support to violence was allowed because Mahatma Gandhi himself says that people should follow their conscience. Why it was short lived? Features of quit India Movement

- ① People were asked to follow their conscience. Hence, non-violence was not the sole force.
- ② Many pockets in India became semi-autonomous like - Jaitiya Sabarigiri in Bengal, Tilu Pandey in Swadhinata, Nana Patil in Maharashtra.
- ③ The Britishers had to use excessive brutal force to dose the fire of revolt. This was unprecedented. However, quit India movement had few drawbacks as well →

(a) In Madras, it was not as forceful as it was in other parts of country.

(b) CP did not support Quit India Movement as British didn't permit partition of British India.

(c) RSS, Hindu Mahasabha also did not support.

Q1 But India movement can be regarded as the "Lionite Revolution". It was the first battle between British Government and the Indian masses. The widespread participation and anger among people made British realize that sooner they had to have to leave India.

- Q12. Describe the evolution of land revenue collection system under British? Also examine the major differences between the major land revenue systems? (12.5 Marks)

Before Britishers, India had indigenous land revenue system and a well established Agrarian Relations between Land owners and the sharecroppers.

However, with coming of Britishers, especially after getting Diwani Rights of Bengal, the land revenue collection system was changed.

Historical evolution:-

(1) Warren Hastings - He introduced Bidding of land. The highest bidder got the ownership and collection right. However it was paired.

(2) Permanent Settlement :- It was launched by Lord Cornwallis. The major features:-

(a) Land became a commodity.

(b) The collector had the ownership right till he paid the 10/11 of the total collection.

(c) Fixed revenue from the land.

(d) Villars were more exploited.

(e) Land became hereditarily.

It was aimed at

* Reducing the burden of revenue collection.

* Creating a mass which would become loyal to the Britishers.

③ Mysore Ryotwari System:- This was introduced in Madras, Central India and S. Bombay. It was introduced by Thomas Munro and Alexander Reed. The major difference was:- Here, the British administration was the collector. In place of many Zamindars, British Crown ~~was~~ became the only Zamindar. The land revenue was periodically revised depending upon the yield.

Impact on peasants?

④ Mahalwari:-

Mahalwari system was introduced in the regions of Punjab, Haryana, and Western U.P.

Here, the "Mahal" was the collector of revenue from the whole village. ~~more features~~

~~General characteristics of all British land revenue policy was exploitative in nature. It~~

Q18. Examine the reasons behind growth of communalism in India and discuss their impact on society and freedom struggle? (12.5 Marks)

Communalism refers to putting ~~the religious~~ interest superior to the other interests.

Communalism is a threat to national integration specially for India which is unique in the sense that it ~~nurtures~~ people of almost all religions.

Communalism in India was the result of British divide and rule policy. The major reasons →

(a) British policy of divide and rule. The birth of Muslim League in 1906, the provision of separate electorate for Muslims in 1909 and the partition of India are examples.

(b) Political -- the lack of representation of the minority group specially Muslims was responsible for formation of Muslim League.

(c) Lack of awareness -- the common masses could not identify the bigger conspiracy of the Britishers because they were not politically aware.

Q19. Was the impact of shift of power from British East Indian Company to British Crown on India, good or bad. Give reasons in support of your answer? (12.5 Marks)

After the revolt of 1857, the Britishers shifted the power from British East India Company to British Crown. Following changes were made:

- (a) the Governor-General of India was replaced by the Viceroy who was accountable to the British Crown.
- (b) the Board of control was abolished, and in its place India Council was formed and Secretary of State was appointed.
- (c) the act promised to respect the Indian customs and culture.
- (d) the act also promised that no further expansion of British territory would be carried out.
- (e) the act also promised to open the doors of DCS for Indians.

The shift of power to British crown was either good nor bad. This is because shift of power did not bring any significant change to Indians (for example).

Remarks

During freedom struggle, when Swarajya party's leader Nitish Kumar made a speech as a speaker in the Central legislative Assembly, the media widely applauded his speech.

SI
Good
Earlier, Lord Lytton had enacted Vernacular Press Act in order to curb freedom of speech and expression of such press. However, another Charles Macalfe liberalized Didiyan Press. In short, Didiyan vernacular press acted as an information disseminator, the voices of leaders were published which acted as the motivation & acted as a catalyst in India's freedom movement.
