- Q1. In the country's multi-party polity, the role of governors under the constitution has been a sensitive aspect of Centre-State relations. Given that some Governors have in the past played a partisan role during moments of political instability. In the light of the such matters, do you suggest US's spoils system be formally adopted in India? Enumerate the pros and cons of this system. (12.5 Marks)

Pole of governor under constitution is envisaged as protector & defender of constitution

Role of governor

- Appoint CM and COM on advice of CM.
- give assent to bills of state legislature
- Reserve bills for consent of president if need be.
- Inform centre about governance in state.

From above, it is clear that governors play dual role viz. it's a nominal head of state govt (nominal) and representative of centre at state level.

Well designed central protector representative respectively

Partisan role of governor -

- e.g. in case of appointment of CM - He/she follows centre's dictates
- Imposition Art-356 e.g.: Mizoram in case of Andhra Pradesh, Uttarakhand where Supreme court has to intervene
- Reserve bills for assent of president on political considerations - delay in giving assent

Remarks

Minimise problems with gubernatorial offices/ disbar

These issues creates causes in centre-state relations which are important for development of country.

Should we adopt U.S spoils system?

In U.S - president appoints different secretaries and other executive post without much consideration of equity, conflict of interest etc. This gives discretion to president to appoint & remove.

In Indian case, Governor has been allotted important constitutional role. After adopting U.S spoils system recommendation of Sarkaria, Ranji commission, Supreme Court judgement in S.R. Bommai case should be followed.

- Political appointment of governor
- fixed tenure
- one who has not been active in politics in recent times
- eminent persons should be appointed

These changes are important for cooperative federalism.

① Judicial overreach is scenario when judiciary goes beyond its role of interpreter of constitution & giving directions to performing executive or legislature's role.

② Judicial Activism on other hand is intervention of judiciary steps in favour of shortcomings on part of executive and legislature.

e.g.: - Police reforms - guidelines

Above powers flows from Art-142 of constitution which allows judiciary to give directions to make complete justice.

Judicial activism is a positive aspect of judiciary for effective governance.

Remarks

Judicial overreach creates problems of implementation, goes against separation of powers, & is interference in other domain.

Way to ensure separation of powers as envisaged in constitution & checks & balance:

- Judicial restraint - as judiciary is independent, it would be more suitable that
- effective working of executive and legislature - will reduce scope for judiciary.
- Some regulation of PIL - only important issues need to be taken by judiciary
- Judiciary should give guidelines and not directives in case of decisions on part of other organs.
